

Editors' Picks: 23 Things Not to Miss in New York's Art World This Week

Another busy week in the New York art world.

By Sarah Cascone

October 7, 2019

Each week, we search New York City for the most exciting, and thought-provoking, shows, screenings, and events. See them below.

Through Sunday, September 27, 2020

Chloe Bass, Artist Sketch of How Much of Love is Attention (2019). Courtesy of the Studio Museum in Harlem.

“Chloë Bass : Wayfinding” presented by the Studio Museum in Harlem

Using the visual language of wayfinding signage, this installation of twenty-four site-specific sculptures situated throughout the park by the artist Chloë Bass asks three questions: How much of care is patience? How much of life is coping? How much of love is attention? The gentle, even poetic prompts evoke moments of quiet reflection as one wanders throughout the park. An accompanying audio guide shares poignant vignettes that explore ideas of memory, transformation, and place.

Location: throughout Saint Nicholas Park between West 128 Street and West 141 Street

Price: Free

Time: Daily, 6 a.m.–10 p.m.

—Katie White